UNDERSTANDING THE DYNAMICS OF GIFTED & SIBLINGS

Have one identified gifted child and wondering how likely a sibling will be gifted, too? Have identified gifted siblings that are intensely competitive with each other? Concerned your child feels inferior to their identified gifted sibling?

Andrea Gerry MS, LMFT

Join us for a discussion on gifted children, the challenges of parenting, and sibling interactions with guest speaker Andrea Gerry. Andrea holds a master's in Family Therapy and is a Licensed Marriage & Family Therapist who is also trained in neurofeedback. Her background in special education and as a group facilitator for SENG (Supporting the Emotional Needs of Gifted) taught her to appreciate the unique needs of high ability children and their caregivers. Andrea is blessed to be a mom to two amazing boys, both who are twice exceptional, though only one is classified gifted within their school district.

Acceleration Surveys: Wisdom

- “My motto has become ‘Just because you can do it doesn’t mean you have to’ ”
- “Boredom is dangerous”
- “Don't focus solely on their biggest strength, look at the big picture.”
- “Acceleration does not make your student successful, the student has to want to be successful.”
- “Ultimately, help choose a path for your child that will lead them into the kind of adult you want them to become.”
