

Who are we?

The Blue Valley Parent Advocates for Gifted Education is a group of parents who have an interest in gifted education in the Blue Valley schools whether through high ability students or students with an identified gifted IEP.

What do we do?

BVPAGE allows parents to talk about issues specific to gifted education that affect our children in the general education classroom, in gifted or enrichment classes, or in social situations. We provide parents a place to talk to parents in other schools and grade levels, to talk about how to navigate through gifted education, and how other families have survived and succeeded with gifted students!

We can act as a connection point between gifted students and the school district. We provide opportunities for parents in structured environments like classes and seminars, open environments like meetings, and the opportunity to meet socially with other parents of gifted students. We also sponsor events for students such as a robotics fair and summer classes.

Where can I find out more?

You can find our more at our website at www.bvpage.org including how to sign up for email information and meeting notices.

Any events coming up soon?

We hold monthly meetings that are open to everyone where we discuss how to advocate for our children, often have district personnel attend to give information and get feedback, discuss curriculum and differentiation, and find that other parents have the same joys and concerns that we do!
